Is a Thing of Beauty and a Joy as Long as it Lasts-Yesterday's.

ATTENDANCE VERY LARGE.

A Festival Given in Conjunction in the Auditorium a Big Success.

The Chrysanthemum Bazaar at the Carroll Club opened auspiciously yesterday afternoon and the attendance both afternoon and evening was large for the first day. Never before in this city has there been such a grooming of petalled beauties as is on exhibition in five rooms in the old building of this club. The ladies in charge of the affair have been indefatigable in their efforts to make it a success and from an artistic point of view one need only visit the Carroll Club to se the fruition of their labors. The club rooms are tastefully embellished and form a scene of sylvan beauty.

Besides the Chrysanthemum Bazaar in the auditorium many booths have been erected in the nature of a fair and festival. Here pretty girls look after the wants of the visitor and the amusements are multifarious.

Two floors of the old building of the Carroll Club are devoted to the chrysanthemum show. Here one can see all the colors and styles of chrysanthemum known to nature. Winsome maidens are in charge of the various displays and offer them for sale. In each of the five rooms in which the flowers are on display the nature of their grouping and arrangement is diversified.

- The Hess Exhibit.

In the library is the Max Hess booth in charge of Misses Margaret O'Kane, assisted by Misses Lizzie Counihan. Margaret Howard, Mame Owens, Lillie Welty, Anna Karges and Kate Howard. Here the lover of flowers finds himself in a conservatory filled with chrysanthemums of multitudinous They are so arranged as to produce the most pleasing effect on the eye, being banked in each corner and towering to South of the Hers display is the par-for in which is the beautiful display of John Hellstern. Here May Altmeyer is in charge, assisted by Misses Mary Ray, Kate O'Hare, Gertrude Sauers, Helen Farley and Mrs. W. P. Lear. One experiences a veritable scene of elystum upon entering here, where vari-colored chrysanthemums form a beautiful background to the bevy of bewitching girls in charge.

Another display on the first floor is that of Franz Laupp, which is in charge of Miss Agnes Merge, assisted by Misses Della Deegan, Tenia Shaffer and Bertha Schuyler. The same enchanting effect is produced here by the tasteful grouping of chrysanthemums. This booth is a bower of beauty fit for the most fastidious eye, a paradise of horticultural beauty.

On the Second Floor.

On the second floor, occupying the billiard hall of the club, is the display of the Wheeling Greenhouse Company. The walls are literally covered with beautiful chrysanthemums and in the middle of the room there is an embankment of this species of floriculture. The most sumptuous garden or conservatory could scarcely form a prettier visual feast than the billiard hall during the chrysanthemum bazaar. This display is in charge of Mrs. M. J. McFadden, assisted by Misses Rose Rock, Blanche Reynolds, Margaret McFadden, Eliza-beth McGiffen, Maud Cochran and Rose

To the north of the display above mentior/d is that of George Greiner and it is scarcely less beautiful. Chrysanthemums galore in every conceiva-ble color are found. The display is in charge of Miss Dora Burkhardt, assisted by Misses Ida Maleney and Bertha

In charge of the whole chrysanthemum display is Mrs. M. J. McFadden, who had been untiring in working for its success. The flowers are for sale and last evening in some of the booths the stock had to be replenished several times. The whole display is a beauty, the like of which is seldom seen.

In the auditorium the visitor can find much to amuse. One of the features is the country store, in charge of Mrs E. F. Gannon, assisted by Mesdames John Gompers, George Dusch, Anne Gollner, Adam Blum, John Miles, Kate Shaw, Anna Weltzell and Miss Loretta Blum. Here one can find refreshment in the way of cider, ginger bread and other delicacies admired by our rustle the palace of the sultan of Turkey. The smoking room is cozy to a superlative degree and it is liberally patronized at all times. Pretty and blithsome malds look after the comfort of the visitor and on the whole it is the most attractive place in the bazaar. Miss Anna Lee is in charge, and she is assisted by Misses Anna Wingerter, Margaret Jepson, Sadle Asion and Matilda Riley.

The candy booth is not the least attractive of the booths, and everything in the nature of palate ticklers is dispensed by a corps of charming and accommodating girls. Mrs. George Lutz is chairman, and she is assisted by Mrs. Harry Truschel, Misses Minnie Cochran, Annie Hoffman, Emma Zeockler and Clara Wingerter.

The refreshment booth is in charge of Miss Clara Handlan, assisted by Misses Anne Hoffman, Rose Heiner, Kate Bosley, Claire and Mame Gavin, Lucy and Byrd Donahoe, Mame Kenny, Gene Dittman, Blanche Handlan, Mame Zeockler, Gertrude and Nell O'Nelli, Julia Feinler and Mrs. Will Gundling. Refreshments are sold and served by pretty girls and it forms one of the most attractive places of the fair. Ludicrous Features.

One of the ludicrous features is the Museum, in charge of Mrs. James T. Handlan, asisted by Misses Maggle Jones, Jule Flading, Bess Welty, Gertrude Campbell, Flora Welty and Mrg. Thomas O'Brien, jr. Here one can see freaks and curlosities without number. besides which the side shows of P. T. Barnum and Ringling Bros. pale into insignificance. A dwarf, 26 laches in height and who is 104 years old, grins sardonically at you on entering the place. A snake charmer, a fat woman, a mermaid and a living skeleton are a few of the freaks here on exhibition. Among other curiosities are the original posters containing "kids at rest,"
"American beauties," "early home of "Teddy," "partial view of the Ohio river," "falling dew," and others.

Madameselle Zingerella, the famous Gypsy fortune teller, skilled in the art of legerdemain, seventh daughter of a seventh son, in a tent in the centre of the auditorium, reads the past, present and future with never failing accuracy. This is positively the last chance to have the future read by this world's famous clairvoyant and her ellentels during the remaining two days of the bazaar will no doubt be a large of

To-morrow at 10 o'clock, the orphana of St. John's home will atten! the bazaar. The orphans of the Children's home, on Thirtcenth street, have been invited to attend by the committee and they will no doubt be there to-morrow morning.

Lunch is served every evening in the dining room from 5 o'clock until 12. This part of the affair is in charge of Mrs. Bernard Bach and Mrs. J. W. Beltz, who, with their corps of assistants, furnish the best meal in the city. The cuisine is all that could be desired and all the viands of the season are found on the festal board.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

At St.Clairsville Last Night Totally Destroys a Livery Stable and Its Contents-The Loss $4,000.

About ten o'clock last night fire was discovered in the old livery stable building owned by James Frazier at St. Clairsville, and before the fire department could get any water on the blaze it was beyond control. The origin of the fire is unknown, but the belief is general that it was incendiary. number of mysterious fires have oc-curred at St. Clairsville lately and there scems to be a persistent and iniquitous fire bug at work.

The total loss of last night's fire will amount to about $4,000, as the building was a valuable one. A race horse, valued at $1,000, belonging to Comff Williams, was consumed, as well as several sleighs owned by Mell McClan-nahan, several tons of baled hay, a sleigh owned by S. S. Foreman, and a fine trap owned by W. S. Wilson, pro-prietor of the Clarendon hotel. The efforts of the fire department were devoted to saving the adjoining properly. There was no insurance

"A Romance of Coon Hollow."

"A Romance of Coon Hollow," with its charming pictures of southern life, Its realistic stage settings, its typical southern characters, and its capable cast, pleased another good sized audience at the Grand opera house last night. The special features, in particular, came in for a liberal share of applause. The engagement of a half week will conclude with matines and night performances to-day, and the advance sale of seats indicates that there will be large audiences.

City of Wheeling Comes Out. The new packet, City of Wheeling, is to make her initial trip in the Wheeling and Parkersburg trade to-day, clearing this port at noon for below. Wheeling is a beauty bright, and that she will command all the business she can do goes without saying. Not only is she a boat that can hold her own with any other steamboat on the river in speed, but she is also a finely built craft, elegantly furnished, with line cabin service, and in addition is manned him. ned by a crew whose watch word is "Accommodation." Yesterday, Captain John Heatherington, of the Belmont coal works, Bellaire, a well known steamboatman, presented Captain Thomas with a fine set of clk's antiers, which now adora the men's cabin of the packet. Captain Heatherington, said recently he would give the "horns" to the Wheeling if she came, up to the expectations of her owners in the way of speed, and after taking in the trial trip on Sunday, he came to the conclusion that the Wheeling was all and more than had been claimed for her, though on account of the low water she has not yet been let out for all she's worth.

The Wheeling's schedule will be as follows: Leave Wheeling Monday, noon, for Parkersburg; leave Marietta, 7 a. m., Tuesdays, for Wheeling; leave Wheeling, Wednesdays, noon, for Parkersburg; leave Marietta, Thursday, 7 a. m., for Wheeling and Pittsburgh, clearing Wheeling at 9 p. m. and reaching Pittsburgh. Friday evening: leave Pittsburgh. For Wheeling and Parkersburg, Saturdays at noon, clearing Wheeling at 9 p. m., Saturdays, and returning leave Parkersburg at 10 a. m. on Sundays.

The Greenwood and Avalon have been ordered out. The latter will be up for Pittsburgh at 2 p. m. to-day, and the former for Pittsburgh Thursday morning.

It is expected that the big Pitts-burgh-Cincinnati liners, Queen City, Virginia and Keystone State, will be ordered out before the close of the week. It is not known whether the Hudson will be returned to this trade or be a barge stage of water in the Ohio river Thursday morning. Coal will be going down the Ohio river Thursday either in light barges or heavy ones, and, if the rains continue through the night, there will be a coal boat stage. There has not been a barge stage of water in the Ohio river since June 18, a period of five months. There was a shipment of coal on July 27, but only light barges were sent out, and the coal shipment approximated less than 1,000,000 bushels. It is almost certain that there will be eight feet of water Thursday, and, if so, 10,000,000 bushels of coal will be started south and 10,000 me will be directly benefited by the rise in the rivers. Steamboats will also be enabled to return hundreds of empty crafts to this port.

The rise that will cause the Ohio to swell is coming principally out of the Allegheny river. This is more pleasing to rivermen, for a swell out of that river is always of longer duration and of the lasting quality. There have been good rains above Oll City. It is raining at nearly all points along the Monongahela river, a condition that was not reported at 8 a. m. Heavy rains are also reported from points down the Ohio river, which makes the conditions are also reported from points down the Ohio river, which makes the conditions are also reported from points down the Ohio river, which makes the conditions are also reported from points down the Ohio river, which makes the conditions are also reported from points down the Ohio river, which makes the conditions are also reported from points down the Ohio river, which makes the conditions are also reported from points down the Ohio river, which makes the conditions are also reported from points down the Ohio river, where the water is also needed. Much of the coal that will be shipped will be taken through to New Orleans, and the first tow of coal should arrive there by Christmas. The lower markets are bare of fuel and coal is selling at the best prices of the year. There are 30,0000 bushels of coal waiting shipment, but it will r
